Dear Mr Almeida,

Regarding our telephone conversation of a few months ago about the Portuguese Theatre Group Alem Fronteiras, please find enclosed some leaflets which will give you information on the group and the play we are performing at the moment. I would just like to stress the relevance of a play on immigration in the present political climate and therefore the importance of playing it to as many audiences as possible, which can include union meetings, socials, immigrant organisations, anti racist groups, etc. We have performed it for non-Portuguese speaking audiences with great success and no major language problems as the play is very visual and we can introduce the scenes in English.

Please circulate the leaflets to as many people as possible and discuss it in your union meetings. You mentioned that there are many Portuguese in St Bartholomeo's, St Thomas and London Hospitals, so if you are in touch with the unions there please let them know about our theatre group. If you want any more leaflets or require more information please let me know.

I wrote this letter in English as you might want to read it in your union meeting.

Looking forward to hear from you.

Yours sincerely

Henrique Avran
